

Monday Meanderings, Two-minute Tuesdays, Wednesday Words, Thursday Thoughts, Forward-thinking Fridays...whatever day this communication reaches you, I wanted to send out an announcement to the Providence Christian School community that Mrs. Kathy VanderPol has a new co-leader...me! I asked Kathy if I would be able to write a message to the community and so here I am, doing one of my first duties as Principal-Teacher at PCSNW.

For those who didn't know, I started subbing for Mrs. Rebecca Montgomery in January to allow her some time to do some "Principal duties". I enjoyed getting to know the middle school students and was a little saddened that I didn't have a chance to really get to know most of the staff or the other students. However, now I will have the opportunity to connect with students, teachers, parents, and community supporters in my part-time role as Principal and Teacher. Already, I have had the chance to meet with Kathy and discuss staffing, new enrollment, and plans for the fall.

I hope to share my education background and connect with you when we get closer to the Fall. Until then, enjoy the summer as we find creative ways to take a break from studies within the confines of Phase 2 as set out by the state. Hang in there and stay safe!

Scott Vandenberg